Human Trafficking/ Tráfico Humano
The Salvation Army of Wake County

Jessica P. and Brooke J.

The Salvation Army's Raleigh – based Project FIGHT (Freeing Individuals Grippd by Human Trafficking) was established in 2011 to provide comprehensive case management to victims of human trafficking. Since that time, the program has offered services and assistance to dozens of victims of labor and commercial sexual exploitation across North Carolina. The four program areas of Project FIGHT include: Awareness and Education; Outreach to identify and assist possible victims; Case Management through trauma informed services; and Collaboration with community members and agencies across the state. The program works closely with the North Carolina Coalition Against Human Trafficking, Rapid Response Teams across the state, Partners Against Trafficking of Humans in North Carolina, and the North Carolina Coalition Against Sexual Assault.
